Dora–Not exactly. He did say, though, that in the past he had done some very foolish things.

Our Citizenship

Only let your conversation be as it becometh the gospel of Christ . . . that ye stand fast in one spirit. Phil. 1:27

I stood in a courtroom in Los Angeles along with nearly 400 people said William L. Barclay. We had been on trial. Yet we had committed no crime. The judge looked us over carefully then he spoke. "You stand before me," he said "because it is your desire to become American citizens. You have passed the examinations that are designed to test your knowledge of American laws, and I am convinced that you are determined to keep these laws. I am going to have you say after me the Oath of Allegiance. In so doing you are declaring that you will be loyal to America and its standards wherever you are." We then repeated Oath of Allegiance, and the judge declared us American citizens.

You are probably asking, What does this have to do with our texts?" Note carefully: Paul wrote to the Philippians that their "conversation be as it becometh the gospel of Christ." The word conversation is translated from the Greek word politeuo, which means "to be a citizen." or "to behave as a citizen."

Clearly Paul was urging the believers to conduct themselves as citizens of God's Kingdom. These believers were Christians, and their true citizenship was in heaven.

Paul's message to the Philippians is God's message to us today. Heaven is our home. Our citizenship is above, and our lives must not be devoted to a world that is soon to be destroyed."

Please read of the Counsels to Parents and Teachers. P. 455 Our conduct must be governed by the laws of heaven. "Let your manner of life be worthy of the gospel of Christ. (Phil. 1:27 R.S.V.) Our citizenship is signed in the blood of Christ. We witness to the world in whom we believe by the manner in which we live. "The Christian's practice is to accord with his profession. Under the influence of the gospel of Christ he must be true and faithful, peaceful and loving, gracious and humble. His way of life must be consistant whether his guide is present or absent "The SDA Bible Commentary on Phil. 1:27 when Jesus Christ . . . that ye stand fast in one spirit, with one mind striving together for the faith of the gospel" Phil. 1:27

Highway Safety

Slippery pavement, poor visibility and congested highways, especially during holidays, are a triple threat to drivers.

"Thanksgiving can coincide with the first winter weather, when neither drivers not their cars are ready for traveling in that kind of weather," according to John T. Hanna, director, Highway Safety Division of Virginia.

Preparing the car for winter driving is the first step in avoiding accidents, Hanna said. "Make sure your car is in good mechanical condition, paying particular attention to those items that affect traction and vision, such as brakes, tires, lights, defroster and windshield wipers.

"Good tires with good treads are important year round, but even more so when pavements are slippery. Snow tires can be a real help for driving through snow. Reinforced tire chains are even more effective for driving through severe snow and ice conditions," continued the safety official.

Poor visibility, often associated with winter weather, results from longer hours of darkness, rain, snow, frost, sleet and fog. Drivers should clear the entire windshield, now just a peephole, and the side and rear windows. visibility to the side and rear is essential in today's heavy traffic. Streaking windshield wipers should be replaced and the reservoirs checked for an adequate supply of anti-freeze solution."

Finally, Hanna urged drivers to check with the weather bureau before starting out on an extended trip. "If the weather is already bad and reports indicate more of the same is expected, think twice before starting out and subjecting your family to the possibility of a serious accident," concluded Hannah.

Only Advisory

Bump: "Has your wife learned to drive the car yet?"

Bumper: "Yes. In an advisory capacity."
